The Authors retain all article copyright.

These rights include mechanical, electronic and visual reproduction; electronic storage and retrieval; and all other forms of electronic publication or any other types of publication including all subsidiary rights. In return for the above rights, the authors retain the following rights: Provided the sources is fully quoted at all times, authors are hereby granted the right to:

- Reproduce the manuscript in whole or in part in any printed book or thesis of which they are the author(s).
- They and any academic institution where they work at the time may reproduce the manuscript in a reasonable number of copies for the purpose of course teaching. This does not apply if a commercial charge is made for the training course.
- To post a copy of the manuscript as accepted for publication after peer review (in word or text format) on the authors's website provided that they also link to the article on the journal's website.
- To reuse figures or tables created by them and contained in the manuscript in other works created by them.

Authors retain the right to provide a copy of the final peer-reviewed manuscript to the NIH or other funding agencies upon acceptance for publication, in accordance to the organization's policy.

It is the author's responsibility to take the necessary actions to achieve compliance.

However, they agree to transfer and assign exclusively to Edisciences the copyright therein only for commercial use.

Each author certifies they have participated sufficiently in the preparation of this work to take public responsibility for it.

Each author warrants and certifies that:

- This work does not violate any trademark registrations nor the right of privacy of any person, contains libelous, obscene, or other unlawful matter, and does not infringe upon the statutory or common law copyright or any person or party.
- Each author warrants that this manuscript is original, has not been published elsewhere in any form, electronic or in print -in part, or its entirety - and is not being considered for publication elsewhere while under consideration for this publication.
- The authors certify also that the data on which the manuscript is based will be supplied upon request of the reviewers if required.
- Each author further warrants that he or she has obtained, prior to submission, written releases from patients whose names or photographs are submitted as part of the work and that they will be supplied upon request.
- Nothing in the contribution is obscene, defamatory, libelous, violates any right of privacy or infringes any intellectual property rights (including copyright, patent or trademark) or any other human, personal or others rights of any person or entity or is otherwise unlawful.
- Nothing in the contribution infringes any duty of confidentiality which any of the authors may owe to anyone else or violates any contract, express or implied, of any of the authors, and all of the institutions in which work recorded in the contribution was carried out have authorized its publication.
- If the contribution includes materials of others excerpts (text, figures, tables, or illustration), the authors have obtained written permission from the copyright holder prior to submission to enable them to grant the rights contained herein. Copies of all such permissions are attached to the submission and credit to the original publication has been properly acknowledged in the manuscript.
- Authors hereby consent to the inclusion of electronic links from the contribution to third-party material wherever it may be located. If the manuscript will for any reason not be published, the Publisher will give prompt notice to the Author and its agreement shall terminate. Neither the author(s) nor the publisher shall be under any further liability or obligation.
